For Immediate Release:

NFATCA Announces Ian McCollum Appointed to Board of Directors

The National Firearms Act Trade & Collectors Association (NFATCA) is pleased to announce that Ian McCollum has been appointed to its Board of Directors. NFATCA President, John Brown, confirmed the appointment at the recent 2019 SHOT Show in Las Vegas, Nevada. Brown said "Ian represents a tremendous resource in the National Firearms Act (NFA) community and provides a wealth of knowledge that is highly valued by collectors and the industry. We are honored that he has chosen to accept this appointment".

Ian McCollum is the founder and editor of Forgotten Weapons, a web site and video channel dedicated to preserving information about experimental, prototype, and other interesting military firearms. With more than 1 million YouTube subscribers, it is one of the premier online sources of historical firearms information. A Purdue University graduate, Mr. McCollum is also an avid competition shooter, co-host of the InRangeTV YouTube channel, and author of "Chassepot to FAMAS: French Military Rifles 1866-2016", publishing in the late spring of 2019. He is also the co-author of two Vickers Guide books, on the Kalashnikov and German WWII small arms. McCollum's websites:

The NFATCA has passionately represented the entire NFA community for over 15 years in its mission to make more NFA firearms available to more people, more often, in a fair and equitable manner. Its accomplishments include the creation of a plain-English guide to the NFA, The NFA Handbook, elimination of the Chief Law Enforcement Officer signature approval requirement, reversal of 100's of improper machine gun rulings and more. The NFATCA is currently focused on engaging additional NFA amnesty registration periods, the elimination of the Hughes amendment and the removal of many items from the auspices of the National Firearms Act.
